CITY'S HEALTH SCORE IMPROVES

State Department of Health Raises Standing From 590 to 755 44/100—City Generally And Board Of Health In Particular Highly Complimented By Dr. Duryea.

The health score of the city has been increased by the state department of Health from 590 to 755-44/100. This is due to the successful and effective health work being accomplished by the local board of health of which Mayor Canfield is chairman.

At the present time the state department of health scores the cities from the standpoint of health, giving the cities credit for effective methods employed to improve the general health conditions and for results accomplished. Kingston was given a score of 590 as a result of the health survey of the city in the fore part of 1920.

Dr. Duryea, who is head of the division of scoring of the state department, and Dr. Laidlaw, who is the sanitary supervisor of the district, have been in the city the past several days making the yearly health survey. Dr. Duryea complimented the city very highly for the beneficial work done by Mayor Canfield, Dr. Johnson and the local board of health. As a result the scoring of the city has been raised from 590 to 755 44/100 out of a possible 1,000. This score is very favorable compared with the other cities of the state.

The higher score was obtained without any additional employes or extra expense upon the part of the board. The card index system and the manner of keeping records of the board were declared to be excellent by Dr. Duryea. He also spoke highly of the laboratory service to the public and the people, the careful manner communicable diseases were handled, and the beneficial maternity work done. Dr. Laidlaw referred especially to the great decrease in typhoid fever cases and also diphtheria cases. Dr. Duryea stated that the state department was formerly in fear of the diphtheria outbreaks and epidemics which had happened in Kingston regularly, but which were now under control because of the methods employed. As a result the death rate of Kingston has been materially decreased. The child death rate of the city for 1920 was the lowest in the history of the city.

Both doctors walked about the city and stated they were charmed with the streets, the trees and the buildings. Dr. Duryea is called the "father of the mayors' conference." He was mayor of Schenectady about ten years ago and was elected on a public health program. He called a conference of the mayors of the state to discuss public health questions. As a result, the mayors' conference was started and every city of the state is now a member. Mayor Canfield has been one of the supporters of the conference from the beginning and is now the chairman of the bureau council. Dr. Duryea expressed the opinion that if Kingston continues its good health work, it should have even a better score next year.

The body was recovered shortly afterward and Dr. L. G. Rymph of Bloomington made every effort to resusitate the young man but without success. Coroner W. N. Rise In Price of Cotton One Of Galaxy Of New Stars, But Not In Itself a Cure For Present Conditions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 8—There was a certain amount of optimism in business circles here today, following the sensational rise in price of cotton, which has added some $500,000,000 in ten weeks to the wealth of the cotton growing states of the south.

Bankers, merchants and others were interested to know just what effect the rise in cotton would have upon further business revival, which already has brought large orders to New England spinning mills and set them going full blast after months of idleness.

John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, telephoned this exclusive statement to the International News Service.

"I think it will take more than one commodity to rise in value to affect in any substantial way the conditions at present existing but I believe that the worst of the depressing times is over so far as general business is concerned.

"There will have to be congestion in cities like New York and Chicago from over speculation in the uncertainties of newly formed companies, based on subscription to shares of stock which thus far have not been marketable.

"This rise in cotton is one of the galaxy of the new stars appearing every week, and we must be cheerful and hopeful and not talk things down but talk them up."

BLOCK PARTY DATE CHANGED

Woman's Auxiliary of American Legion Post Changes Date To Accomodate Public Which Wants To Attend.

Because of the numerous other events which had been planned for Wednesday evening, September 14, the date of the Moonlight Block Party to be given by the Woman's Auxiliary of Post 150 of the American Legion has been changed to Friday evening, September 16, when it will be held at Academy Park.

The Block Party will inaugurate the membership drive which is being undertaken by the Woman's Auxiliary, which desires a membership commensurate with the number of men who served in the World War from Kingston and its vicinity. The wives, mothers and sisters of all men who served during the World War are entitled to membership in the organization, which it is hoped will become one of the strongest auxiliaries in New York state.

Friday evening, September 16, will be full moon and no more delightful place can be found for a block party than Academy Park, whose natural beauty has been developed in a simple but most effective way.

To the success of the block party and membership drive the members of the Woman's Auxiliary is bringing the same energy and activity which marked their efforts to provide comforts for the boys when they were in service and the patriotism which has manifested itself in movements of this character in the past will not be found wanting now.

As an evidence of appreciation of the work which the Woman's Auxiliary has done in the past and is now doing, the executive committee of Kingston Post of the American Legion at a meeting held Wednesday night voted that the Legion attend the party in a body.

CALDER WOULD HAVE 2.75 BEER

New York Senator Making an Effort to Include Such a Provision in the Tax Revision Bill—Would Yield $100,000,000 Revenue.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Efforts to amend the pending tax revision bill so that 2.75 per cent beer may be sold as a non-intoxicating beverage, are to be made by Senator Calder of New York, a member of the senate finance committee, it was learned today. Calder's plan provides for the virtual amendment of the Volstead act, which prohibits the sale of beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic volume, by the declaration in the revenue bill that such beer is non-intoxicating, and subject to a tax of $5 per barrel. It is estimated that the provision would yield an annual revenue of at least $100,000,000. Although beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content is held to be intoxicating under the prohibition law, many physicians have declared otherwise, expressing the professional opinion that 3 per cent alcohol is necessary to give the beverage a "kick."

KINGSTON PHOTOS IN BIG EXHIBIT

Pennington Studio Pictures Attract Attention in Exhibit at Convention of New England Photographers.

Lou Merillat, of the Pennington Studio, Main street, is attending the New England Photographers' convention which is now in session at Springfield, Mass.

The New England convention is one of the most important photographers' conventions in the United States, and many of the biggest men in the country in that line are attending and have exhibits on display. New York city and Boston are heavily represented, and their best experts are demonstrating in a sort of post graduate and new idea manner.

Mr. Merillat was not surprised but delighted to find a life size picture of John Burroughs, the poet-naturalist, which he had made at the Pennington Studio, in the exhibit of a large Rochester photographic paper concern. He was also pleased to find a $75 water color of one of the bridal poses taken at the Pennington Studio in another exhibit, and was still more pleased when he noticed a $150 water color of one of the Pennington Studio's young lady patrons occupying the central location in the exhibit of a prominent Boston portrait house.

These pictures have attracted much attention not only at the Springfield convention but also at the National Photographers' Convention held at Buffalo and at the Middle States' Convention. They are now on their fourth convention exhibit. Photographers and visitors displayed great interest in Mr. Merillat and in Kingston.

The New England Photographers' Convention is being hld in the Municipal Building of Springfield. The city is about the same size as Albany. The Municipal Building contains a magnificent auditorium where important conventions and other meetings are held. The auditorium is well lighted, is equipped with an immense pipe organ, has a fine dancing floor, reception rooms, etc., and in every way is a modern structure whose use for large gatherings does much to spread the fame of Springfield and has resulted in the city's steady growth and advancement.

Mr. Merillat is particularly interested in the new electric spot-light effects and diffused focus work, which is now so popular in portrait photography, and is making a special study of it for the purpose of introducing the new work in Kingston.

ADVENTURE of the most stirring kind.
THRILLS that send the hot and cold sizzle up and down your spine.

She Remembered Back 200 Years

Tonight—a belle in the sparkle and splendor of a modern New York masquerade.

A mysterious trance, and then—captive on an old-time pirate ship, where mutinous cut-throats brawled and battled for loot.

Two worlds, two ages—yet the same persons in each!

A romance of golden adventure, built of a thousand thrills.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

In Defense Of Blonds.

There, little blonds, don't cry,
They have knocked you so hard, I know,
And your eyes of blue
And your bobbed hair, too,
They have lost you many a beau.
But foolish notions will soon pass by
There, little blonde, don't cry.

There, little blonde, don't cry,
Men are such poor judges, you know
For they think that brains
Go with dark haired dames,
But not with the blonds, oh, no.
But who wants a girlie with brains not I,
Don't cry little blonde, don't cry.

There, little blonde, don't cry.
It's a case of sour grapes, I know,
Men who've been turned down;
Look on blondes with a frown,
Trey're the ones who cause you woe,
If the truth were told, 'tis for blondes they sigh,
Don't cry, little blonde, don't cry.

There, little blonde, don't cry,
They have broken your heart, I know
With your powdered nose
And your rolled down hose,
You bother the dear men so,
Still, they're always ready to risk an eye,
There, little blonde, don't cry,

Dear Folks and All: What has become of the old-fashioned brewery float that used to be the feature of all the parades.

When a St. Louis Woman applied for a divorce from her sixth husband it was discovered that the divorce from her first husband was illegal and that made the whole flock of weddings phony. When one gets a divorce it's a good thing to have it fitted on so there will be no wrinkles. Just think of all the outlawry that lady has been guilty of.

Alarming Possibility.

Is there any possibility that yeast eating might start something in violation of the Volstead act?

Life As I See It.

I think a policewoman ought to be allowed time off to get her hair washed.

Milly—"What did she run it in?"

Billy—"I'll be darned if I knew what you call 'em."

White Rose COFFEE

New York's Own Drink

Why?

Because New Yorkers are a coffee-drinking, coffee-loving people.

And their very love of it makes them all the more exacting about the brand they drink.

Knowing this exacting taste—that it demands a richly-flavored, well-roasted coffee—we drew upon the great coffee markets of the world until we found for them their very own kind.

White Rose Coffee has been specially packed to meet New York's discriminating coffee taste.

PEACE HOPE NOT DEAD IN IRELAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 8.—With the British cabinet's note to Eamonn de Valera, proposing a peace conference on September 20, due at Dublin today, belief was strong that the Sinn Fein will accept and will return an answer to Premier Lloyd-George within a few days.

It is believed that de Valera's statement in Dublin on Tuesday and his sharp references to a possible English ultimatum was chiefly responsible for the rejection of the proposal that a time limit be given to the Sinn Fein for acceptance or rejection of the six main points in the original English peace offer. The suggestion of an ultimatum was made at the In[illegible]s cabinet meeting, but was voted down.

Washington's Religion.

There has been considerable controversy over the extent to which religious belief entered into Washington's character. His own chronicles show that most of his Sundays, except during the presidency, when he felt obliged to set an example, he spent in answering letters, going over his accounts, hunting or doing any business that those with whom he was negotiating had no scruples. In choosing people to work for him he set up no barriers of creed, judging men from the standpoint of honesty, industry and ability.

The project of a canal across the isthmus of Panama is about four hundred years old. Balboa and other Spanish explorers urged such construction before the emperor of Spain, and made surveys in search of a feasible line as early as 1525.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 8, 1921.

OUR HOMELESS AMBASSADORS.

After weeks of weary house hunting in Paris, meanwhile lodging in the suburbs, Ambassador Herrick has rented a suitable but very expensive mansion. It seems that he could not buy the right sort of an establishment with the $150,000 Congress reluctantly allowed for that purpose, and long before his term ends the amount is likely to be eaten up in rents. Considering the temper of Congress in this connection, any appropriation at all was surprising. When J. P. Morgan, the New York banker, offered our homeless Ambassador in London his father's fine house in that city Congress nearly threw a fit before it could be induced to accept the gift, members from our far interior remaining in doubt to the last as to whether such a transaction would be in harmony with "all-American" ideas. While there was still no permanent roof to shelter our representative at the court of St. James, Ambassador Page, in February, 1914, wrote in a private letter as follows:

> Of course, I am open to criticism of having taken the place at all. But I was both uninformed and misinformed about the cost as well as about the frightful handicap of having no embassy. It's a kind of scandal in London and it has its serious effect. Everybody talks about it all the time: "Will you explain to me why it is that your great government has no embassy; it's very odd!" "What a frugal government you have!" "It's a damned mean outfit, your American government." The King keeps lecturing me. Mrs. Page collapses many an evening when she gets to her room. "If they'd only quit talking about it!" The other ambassadors, now that we are coming to know them fairly well, commiserate us. It's a constant humiliation. Of course, this aspect of it doesn't worry me much—I've got hardened to it. But it is a good deal of a real handicap, and it adds that much dead weight that a man must overcome, and it greatly lessens the espect in which our government and its ambassador are held.

Mr. Page wrote further that it gave the impression abroad that Americans cared little or nothing about foreign countries. This is a pretty well based impression, so far at least as the average Congressman from our interior is concerned. "Who cares for abroad?" The need of suitable permanent homes for our ambassadors in the great capitals of Europe, wherein they can not only transact their business with proper dignity but return the social courtesies extended to them, has been urged upon Congress repeatedly during many years past, but always the proposition has been dismissed with indifference and with the intimation that the impression made by the official representatives of this country in Europe was not a matter of importance. In the view of our Solons from Gopher Prairie and Possum Trot, the ambassadors from this great country, who are entertained by royalty, who move among the most distinguished men and women of the world, and who are expected to return social courtesies in kind, should be well satisfied to live in a couple of rented rooms in a "nice" hotel or even in a "respectable" lodging house. They think the money that would be "wasted" on suitable embassies ought to go toward dredging small creeks in their neighborhood at the Federal government's expense.

THE FIVE PLAGUES.

In his recent address before the American Bar Association on "The Spirit of Lawlessness" now so prevalent throughout the world, Solicitor-General Beck not only pointed to "an unprecedented growth in crimes" but to an increasing lack of respect for law, a conscious or unconscious revolt against authority everywhere evident, and cited a remarkably comprehensive summary of the world's present difficulties made by Benedict XV last Christmas Eve: "The Pope said that five plagues were now afflicting humanity. The first was the unprecedented challenge to authority. The second, an equally unprecedented hatred between man and man. The third was the abnormal aversion to work. The fourth, the excessive thirst for pleasure as the great aim of life. And the fifth, a gross materialism which denied the reality of the spiritual in human life."

Some of us may doubt the existence of an "unprecedented hatred between man and man," so far at least as surface appearances go, but there is overwhelming evidence of an "unprecedented challenge to authority," an "abnormal aversion to work," an "excessive thirst for pleasure," and a "gross materialism" denying the reality of the spiritual forces. Mr. Beck attributed these plagues to the transformation of social and industrial conditions by modern machinery and a resultant mechanical civilization which has substituted "mass morality" for individual moralty. A commenting editor attributes them rather to the advance of socialism in its various forms. But there would seem to be good reason for the conviction that the other plagues are very largely the result of the last named—a "gross materialism," with its consequent widespread denial of spiritual forces and disbelief in a future life of rewards for the well deserving and punishments for ruthless self-seekers and evil doers generally.

2. Do birds always eat in the day time?
3. What does soap-root come from?

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Does the porcupine have any coat except quills?

Yes, mixed with the quills is coarse hair or fur, for warmth and rain-coat. On the nose the hair is short and rather evenly mixed with short quills an inch or less long. The quills increase in length from nose to tail. The hair is quite long on the sides of the body but is thick short fur on the under parts.

2. How much National Forest have we in the United States?

Originally 850,000,000 acres, at present the total stand is estimated at approximately 545,000,000 acres. Much of this forest, particularly on the pine barrens of the South, occupies land not fit for cultivation, and both supplies a valuable crop where nothing else will grow, and a protection from floods, soil washing, drought, etc.

3. Do different species of birds always choose the same general localities for nesting?

Not necessarily, for we know for instance that the bobolink has within recent years extended its breeding range westward, due to recent introduction of rice growing in western states. Rice is a favorite bobolink food and would tempt the bird to nest where abundant. Starlings extend their range into new localities frequently.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

After two days of reporting, Jim decided that he liked newspaper work first rate, and wanted more of it. But there seemed to be nothing an untrained man could do, and the newspaper force of that particular paper was so small that each member had his hands full attending to his own tasks without bothering to train an outsider.

"You might let me try my hand at selling ads," he begged, as they were showing him the door. "You could use more, couldn't you?"

He was referred to the financial editor, who accepted his offer with a caustic grunt. "If you can sell advertising space to any of these concerns, you'll have my consent to most anything." He handed Jim a list of names and explained the terms regarding space and duration.

As Jim glanced at the list he saw that James Wilson's name stood foremost, and he thought of the parsimonious Yankee druggist with a sinking heart, but never daunted, he hastened to the drug store where Wilson happened to be alone.

"You spoke of a sale you were planning," he began.

"I didn't see any mention of it in the Sun," sourly.

"Oh, did you want me to put it in?" Jim returned innocently. "I hoped you would. That's why I came around to talk the ad over. You've got the right dope, sir. Advertising pays, and the best way to attract a crowd is by announcing the sale in a local paper."

"I consider that information local news, and since you didn't see fit to put it into the local column I've got nothing more to say."

"Suppose we go fifty-fifty? You give me an advertisement and I'll give you a write-up in the column."

"Believe it once and for all, young man, you won't get any money out of me."

Jim left at last, feeling that his day would be fruitless if all on his list were as obstinate as Wilson. Once on the sidewalk, he thought of Wilson's daughter, and his footsteps led him to the hardware store. There he met Mazie and her fiance, Ira Hall.

"Tried to get an ad from your father. Advertising is the way to get business nowadays. You run an ad in the Sun, don't you Hall?"

"No—er—not now."

"Why not?"

Hall hemmed and hawed, and Jim, seeing his indecision, continued to impress him with the need of making public his articles for sale.

"You put an ad in for a week, and I'll get pa to put one in too," exclaimed Mazie. "I guess it's the least we can do for Mr. Lawrence."

"Can you influence him?" Jim wanted to know.

"Watch me!" Mazie ran back to her father's store, and a few minutes later beckoned to Jim. "He's going to take up your offer, fifty-fifty. I don't know what that means, but he wants to plan the ad right off."

Later, Jim called on the other people on the list, and found it the easiest thing to land them. He also discovered that people are very much like sheep. One goes over the fence, and all the rest follow as speedily as their legs will carry them. Because James Wilson, the shrewd, money-hoarding Yankee, had agreed to advertise in the local paper, the rest of the dubious business men followed suit, and Jim was deluged with orders.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

MONUMENT AT NEW ORLEANS

Memorial to World War Fallen Heroes Regarded as One of the Most Interpretative.

One of the most truly interpretative memorial monuments erected since the World war was recently completed at New Orleans. It is the work of Charles L Lawhorn, designer, and C. H Dodd, sculptor. Local American Legion posts presented the monument to the city.

Standing in a bed of red poppies in the beautiful city park, the monument is silhouetted against the palms. At the base is the simple inscription "In memory of our comrades who made the supreme sacrifice." Slight ornamentation relieves the severity of the shaft. On each side of the monument is an insignia, denoting the departments of service in which Americans gave their lives—the army, navy, marine and aviation. The four figures created by the sculptor represent four phases of military experience.

Memorial Monument at New Orleans.

T Semmes Walmsley, chairman of the Legion's national committee on memorials, was deeply interested in the erection of this tribute to the fallen comrades in New Orleans, where he makes his home. Mr. Walmsley pronounced it the most remarkable conception he had seen.

LEGION MEN DO NOT FORGET

Tuberculosis Victim Is Sent Back to His Home in California by Faithful Buddies.

Paul P. Pinnel was only a gob baker in the United States navy during the World war, but he served his country faithfully and is now one of the thousands suffering from tuberculosis. For many months he had been in Seton hospital, New York city, which is caring for patients in the last stages of the dreadful disease.

Walter Hamilton.

His application for compensation has been on file for more than a year, but no action has been taken by the bureau of war risk insurance, although time and time again, Pinnell's critical condition has been brought to the bureau's attention. So he has been existing without compensation and dependent upon members of the American Legion who visit the hospital regularly, for the many little necessities dear to the heart of every sick man.

Walter T. Hamilton, chairman of the Bronx county Welfare committee of the American Legion visited the ex-gob and the latter confided to him that he longed to be back home in California among his people. Hamilton got busy. The next day he took the matter up with his committee and $400 was raised by the Legionnaires to provide for Pinnell's transportation and an attendant nurse.

Pinnell is home now with his aged father. His country for whom he fought may have forgotten, but his buddies—never.

Pies for Sailor Boys.

One thousand home-made pies were prepared by members of the woman's auxiliary of the American Legion at Seattle, Wash., to the 1,400 sailors of the Pacific fleet who took part in a parade there. Other rations were distributed in as generous a measure. Pity the poor ship's cook on a night like that!

LEGION MEN VISIT FRANCE

American Party on Tour of Former Battle Sectors; at Flirey Monument Dedication.

The new "A. E. F." is in France—on a mission much unlike that of the A. E. F. of 1917-1918. The new forces are only 250 strong. They comprise members of the American Legion who are touring the former battle sectors this summer as guests of the French government.

Every state and every branch of service is represented in the peaceful new A. E. F. They sailed from New York on the George Washington. There was a noisy "bon voyage" at the docks as the former presidential ship started on its course. Flags of the United States and the American Legion flew from the mast.

Commanding or rather heading the pilgrimage was John G. Emery, the Legion's national commander. Former commanders Franklin D'Olier and Henry D. Lindsley were present.

Arriving at LeHavre, the citizen expedition was received with great eclat, after which it proceeded to Paris under tow of French officials. From Paris the party set out by special train for Blois to attend the dedication of the Jean of Arc statue presented to the French city by the Jean of Arc Committee of New York

While at Blois, the veterans invaded the old headquarters of the army reclassification board, known better by the doughboy as the "benzine board." Here the Americans staged a burlesque of a benzine hearing during which a score of the pilgrims were "blooyed" as they used to say in the days of the fighting A. E. F.

Every city visited by the former defenders has received them with arms wide-open. That France has not forgotten is everywhere evidenced by the cordiality of the receptions. At Bordeaux, the Legionnaires received the "freedom of the city" from the high officials. From there they went to Tarbes to visit the birthplace of General Foch They placed a memorial tablet upon the house that first sheltered the famous generalissimo

The former fighters were impressed by the rapidity with which many of the ruined towns have been rebuilt. Some Legionnaires have gone over the exact location where they fought the battle of liberty and where many of their buddies fell in action

Probably the most impressive ceremony participated in by the Americans was the dedication of the Flirey monument. This memorial is a tribute to the valor of the doughboys who delivered the little town of German occupation Flirey is familiar ground to many American soldiers. It is on the ridge which was the main line of resistance of the old Toul sector.

It was at Flirey that the Eighty-ninth, from Kansas and Missouri, went into conflict. Seventeen American divisions fought in the vicinity of the little town, which itself was occupied by regimental headquarters of troops holding the line.

At the close of their tour the Legion men will go to Paris where they will have three days A. W. O. L., after which they will sail on their return voyage The party is expected to return about September 15

YOUNGEST AUXILIARY MEMBER

Little Ruth Buell Thompson of Lewistown, Montana, Chosen Mascot of the State Department.

Her mother was a nurse and her father a doughboy, both having served in France. She is Ruth Buell Thompson, 31 months old, and the youngest member of the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion at Lewistown, Montana.

Ruth Buell Thompson.

When the state department of the American Legion of Montana held its annual convention at Lewistown, Baby Thompson was unanimously selected to be the mascot. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Thompson, of Lewistown.

On Honeymoon Hike.

Ernest J. Jackson, who served in the First division in France, and who was wounded 14 times, has started with his bride on a honeymoon hike across the continent from New York to San Francisco. The pair stopped at Indianapolis on the 29th day of their walk, and paid a visit to the national headquarters of the American Legion.

SAW 'HER CLOWNS'

Sick Child's Life Saved by Celebrated Comedians.

Action of French Funmakers That Shines "Like Good Deed in a Naughty World."

The Fratellini brothers, celebrated clowns of Medrano (general favorites of the Continent), were recently the heroes of a singularly touching little incident.

It appears that the nine-year-old daughter of the Widow Collicourt, 31 Rue Franceeur, shortly after attending a performance in which the clowns had appeared, fell seriously ill In her delirium—the child was obsessed with the desire to see them again—the marvelous buffoons who made her laugh so on that evening of happy enchantment; she kept calling for "her clowns."

Months passed while the mother stubbornly fought for the life of her child, and gradually the illness responded to the treatment. The little girl, however, remained sad, pensive and lacking animation. The doctor shook his head, puzzled and alarmed by the child's listlessness. "She should have something to distract her," he said.

How entertain her? The mother was far from being a wealthy woman. Since, however, the child continually spoke of "her clowns," why should she not go to the Fratellini brothers, themselves, and ask their help? She reflected that these celebrated artists were good men who gave generously to charity; that they sometimes went to the hospitals to entertain the inmates and bring them cheer Why should she not go to them and ask them to help save her child?

The upshot was that two days later the widow went to the circus and requested an audience with the Fratellini brothers They were, at the moment, on the stage; she could hear their silly laughter as she stood in the wings and waited. When, presently, panting from their exertions, they came tumbling off, she made her request hurriedly, stopping them, tears standing in her eyes.

The three clowns are the fathers of 14 children, all told. They promised to go the very next day to see the little sick girl, adding that it would not cost the widow a penny.

And sure enough, the next day, arrayed in their most gorgeous costumes, grotesque, hilarious, altogether marvelous, they enacted from full hearts before the little invalid their most fantastic sketch, singing and dancing and grimacing And the ecstatic child, mad with happiness and with a new light in her eyes, clapped her hands, laughing through exquisite tears, and shouted: "Encore! Encore!"

The clowns entertained her for two hours, and when they left—quietly and discreetly, as they had come—they promised to come again.

And that is the end of the story, as the mother told it the other day—except that the little girl is well on the road to recovery The widow came to the writer and related the facts, very simply And the story seemed to the writer a very good story, indeed—From Le Petit Parisien.

Birth of a Star.

The vast black mass, 20,000,000 times larger than the sun, demonstrated to exist in the heavens by the Dutch scientist, Dr. Pannekoek, seems to upset all earlier astronomical calculations.

It is, comparatively speaking, so near us that Doctor Pannekoek suggests that the sun itself must move round it once in 2,000,000 years—drawing the earth with it.

"We believe that the black body must consist of dust, and that this is the first stage in the birth of a star," said an expert. "As it condenses it gets hotter until it becomes luminous and visible. Sudden 'flares' or 'new stars' have been seen in our lifetime, but the black cloud of dust appears to be the real beginning.

"The amazing feature is the nearness of the body. It is relatively as close to the earth as a foot rule would appear to be if only two feet away from the eye. It is quite possible that even vaster bodies of this kind exist." The nearness is relative. The body is 280,000,000,000,000 miles away.

Papal Titles More Costly.

Papal titles have gone up in cost according to a circular which has been sent out by the Vatican announcing an increase in the fees chargeable for the award of papal titles. The following list of titles and costs is given: Prince—Personal title, 10,085 lire. Hereditary title, 21,000 lire. Duke—Personal title, 9,000 lire. Hereditary title, 19,300 lire. Marquis—Personal title, 7,500 lire. Hereditary title, 15,000 lire. Baron—Personal title, 5,000 lire. Hereditary title, 10,500 lire. Payment, it is stipulated, is to be made in gold, which would bring the cost of a princely title to a hundred thousand lire. The nominal value of the lira is about 19 cents.

Circus to Travel in Motor Trucks.

An eastern circus organization will tour the country this year in motor trucks costing from $12,000 to $30,000 apiece. It is estimated the saving in rail charges will go a long way to pay for this equipment. The motorized circus will be able to travel anywhere and, being independent of train service, may make towns not often visited by large shows.

British Courtesy Titles.

What is known in Great Britain as a courtesy title is a title of nobility borne, not of legal right, but by courtesy; thus, the eldest son of a duke, marquis or earl bears by courtesy one of the father's inferior titles: a younger son of a duke or a marquis is called lord, as Lord Robert Cecil, and a younger son of an earl, honorable. The daughters of dukes, marquises and earls are called ladies. The sons and daughters of viscounts and barons are all called honorable. In Scotland, the direct heir to the title of viscount or baron is called master, as the Master of Falkland.

Schoolmasters Poor Prophets.

Here is a story about Sir Conan Doyle showing that Sir Walter Scott was not the only example of a schoolboy who failed to impress his master and who ultimately disproved all the unkind things said about him. When Sir Arthur was leaving the school the master sent for him and remarked: "Doyle, I have known you now for seven years, and I know you thoroughly. I have to tell you that you will never come to any good." We wonder what the dominie thought when he made the acquaintance, later on, of Sherlock Holmes

Sleeping Sickness.

Medical experts disagree in their conclusions as to the exact nature of sleeping sickness. Some forms of "sleeping sickness" are not unlike brain fever, while others indicate symptoms much similar to spinal meningitis. Physicians advise caution against undue exposure to the disease until more exact knowledge of its cause is ascertained.

CACTUS PLANTS.

"Oh, we're so well taken care of," said the Cactus known as the Crown of Thorns Cactus, because its twigs and branches looked like a crown of thorns.

It had lovely pinkish rose colored blossoms which were very cunning.

"We are well taken care of," said the Bird of Paradise Cactus. "I only have a flower a year and it only looks like half a bird because there isn't quite the room here in the green house for me to bloom as there would be if I were in my own home.

"There I would have more room. But I am so well looked after here that they say I bloom very beautiful and that folks come from all around to gaze upon me and admire me.

"I bloom for my keeper. I couldn't disappoint him. He watches over me so carefully and so nicely—just as he does over all of us.

"My bloom is blue and white and my bloom lasts for about six weeks. That is all—six weeks once a year."

"One of my family flowers," said the Rose Cactus, "was taken home by a lady who admires the Cactus plants.

"Yes, and I heard later that the keeper wrapped up the rose in a piece of paper so the sun wouldn't hurt it on the way home as she was carrying it.

"It was fine and fresh when she got home too, and for many days she had it in water and used to admire it.

"She came back and told the keeper so."

"And some of our family went too," said some of the blossoms of the Crown of Thorns.

"Ah yes," said the Rose Cactus, "that is so. That's traveling for our families. Our ancestors or grandparents came from the far South and so did some of us, and now some of our blooms go traveling to homes where they are put in vases on library tables and admired.

"I heard the lady thought our big red blooms were beautiful and so full of soft rich petals and so perfectly made.

"Ah, we all will bloom for our keeper. He knows just how to feed us and rest us and give us water and take care of us. We wouldn't bloom for others in that same way.

"He treats us well and so we are grateful and appreciative."

"Some one," said the Crab Cactus, also known as the Xmas Cactus, "said the other day something that struck me as being very funny.

"Some one had come to the greenhouse and this person was talking about the things that dear old Mother Nature could do.

"It seemed very wonderful to her because she had tried her best to see a tulip move as it opened.

"She said she had watched it steadily and she had seen it bigger one time than another.

"She was out in the sunshine and the tulip was opening up quite quickly.

"But though she watched it steadily and never took her eyes off it she couldn't actually see any movement.

"It grew larger. She could see that it was opened after a time and it had only been a tight bud before.

"Watched It Steadily."

But she had seen no movement at all. Not a sign of a movement of the petals.

"Ah, she thought that was very astonishing.

"But after all why was it so astonishing? I can see nothing unusual about it.

"I don't believe she stopped to think how usual it is to have things grow without seeing them actually move.

"Children, you know, grow taller and taller but we don't see them leaping up in size.

"No, we all grow without any actual moving that can be noticed.

"It is the same with all growing things, and children are growing things too, just as plants are, and baby animals. All growing, yes, all growing."

And the Cactus plants chatted happily for they were well looked after and they were very contented.

What more could they want? Nothing at all. They were absolutely contented.

HELPFUL HINTS.

A housekeeper who hates bed-making starts her victrola playing the quick, liveliest tunes she has and keeps time to the music in her work. She forgets the drudgery and the work is done in half the time it ordinarily takes. Even her laundress works faster and is happier while the music is heard. This is recommended to keep laundresses happy.

When the screw tops on cans refuse to yield to ordinary twisting try a piece of sandpaper under the hand.

Another use for sandpaper is to place a piece, rough side down, on the zinc top of the table to hold the meat grinder firmly to the table.

Use the pie racks for carrying pies when picnicking. Slip the racks into a pail which will be needed for water.

When straightening the hem of linen in making table linen, save all the threads drawn to use for darning. The same thread makes the mended piece scarcely noticable.

Melt up the small pieces of toilet soap and pour into a mold. Such a cake may be used for toilet purposes, saving several new cakes.

To brighten the fireplace brick, scrub with hot soap suds then apply a coat of hot boiled oil. The oil fills the pores of the brick and the dust and ashes do not settle in them.

Watermelon Balls.—This is one of the prettiest of preserves and one which will be a delight to use as a garnish in various desserts. Use the firm pink part of the melon and scoop out the balls with a potato scoop. Soak these over night in a weak alum water, allowing an ounce of alum to a gallon of water. Pour off the water in the morning, weigh the fruit and allow three-fourths as much sugar as fruit, one thinly sliced lemon, the slices quartered, to each pound of fruit and one ounce of ginger root to every three pounds. Cook, with just enough water to melt the sugar, adding more, if there is not sirup enough to cover the fruit. Cook until clear, then boil down the sirup until thick. Can in jars and seal.

Banish Gossip.

The "I have heard," "I have been told," "It has been said to me," "I have been told as a fact" contingent are the main factors of the machinery which keeps the pessimistic report factory in full operation. Let gossip be forced to produce facts, figures and authorities for its assertions, and vague, mischievous assertions will cease.—Exchange.

Original Sacrament.

The sacrament may be termed an oath taken to fight manfully under the banner of Christ; originally the word meant a military oath taken by the Roman soldier, not to desert his standard, turn his back upon the enemy, or abandon his general. The early Christians used the word to denote a sacred mystery and so it was applied to the eucharist.

POTATO CROP IN CRITICAL STAGE

Potatoes are about half dug on Long Island and the crop is nearly normal; elsewhere in the state they were adversely affected by the heat and dry weather and their condition is generally regarded as critical, according to the summary of weather and crop conditions for the week ending September 6, sent out from the Ithaca office of the weather bureau. Corn cutting and silo filling are well under way, with the excellent reports on the corn crop continuing. Some buckwheat has been cut and the reports regarding its condition are less favorable. Pastures have failed rapidly and are now generally poor except on Long Island.

The week was exceedingly warm over the entire state, showers occurred on the third, but were insufficient, except locally, and the need of more rain was felt in practically all sections. Streams and wells are very low in many districts.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, Sept. 8.—The Woodstock school opened the fall term on Tuesday, September 6. We have two new teachers, Ralph Eighmey of Willow is principal and Miss Marian Mead of Roxbury, N. Y., as second teacher. A new roof is being put on the school building by Reynolds & Wolven, contractors and builders.

Seven of our young people are registered in the Kingston High School: Donald St. John, Ralph Harrison, Robert Lincoln, Samuel Wilson, Cathaleen Happy, Beatrice Myers, Ursella Cashdollar. Arrangements are made with Messrs. St. John, Happy and Lincoln to take the young people to town in the morning and they are to return at night with the Woodstock bus.

The Rev. George W. Grinton of Kingston will preach in the M. E. Church of Shady Sunday evening, September 11, at 7:30, standard time.

Henry Lincoln leaves Woodstock Monday, September 12, for Syracuse, where he enters the University as a freshman.

The Rev. H. I. Nicholas of Summit, Pa., is visiting his brother, the Rev. John Nicholas, of Woodstock, both Reformed ministers.

We miss a good many people from our streets now that Labor Day is past, but we cannot complain for Woodstock has had a good summer.

A very great improvement to our village is the sidewalk built on East Main street. This will make it more safe for our school children as many of them pass up and down that street.

Herbert Riseley, our superintendent of roads, is making needed improvements on the road to Wittenberg, building a long piece of stone road. Watson Riseley is foreman of the work.

The Rev. J. H. Lincoln was called to Livingston Manor on Thursday to officiate at the funeral of a friend, a former member of his church and choir. Mrs. Lincoln accompanied him.

Make Your Own BUG KILLER P. D. Q.

You can easily make at home a full quart of the strongest bug-killer for 35c, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants. This recipe will not harm rot or stain the clothing and is entirely different from any other formula we know of, as this will kill the eggs.

Procure of your druggist a 35c package of (Pesky Devils Quietus) P. D. Q. then you will have the chemical made expressly to rid Hotels, Hospitals and dwellings of pesky bedbugs and other insects.

Impossible for the pesky devils to exist with the proper use of P. D. Q.

Special Hospital size $2.50—makes five gallons—your druggist has it or he can get it for you or sent prepaid either size by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind., upon receipt of price. Look for the devil's head on every package.

WM. S. ELTINGE, Druggist.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Sept. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Kearney of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Jordan and Miss Emma Paltridge spent Labor Day at Lake Mohonk and had a delightful trip and pleasant time.

The Rev. F. A. Coons was in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Gertrude Auchmoody is now in Monroe teaching school. She has a fine position.

Mrs. R. Caldwell has been entertaining her son over the holiday.

Auxiliary Club of over 100 women was present for their regular meeting last Friday. The meeting was held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Coons and she, with Mrs. Walter Constable, Mrs. E. Chudleigh and Miss Ada Van Nostrand, acting hostesses, greeted all most cordially. After the devotional exercises and every thing was transacted, a shore dinner was the principal topic. This will take place on Wednesday evening, September 28. After business was finished the hostesses served in abundance peaches and cream, also home made cake and cocoa and these were very much appreciated. After a social time all left for their respective homes wishing good luck to the hostesses of the afternoon.

Do not forget the date that has been planned for the convention of Ulster County C. E. Union which will be held in Presbyterian Church on October 7 and 8. Fine program has been arranged and some grand speakers will be on hand and if you remain home you will miss a treat.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Merritt are entertaining guests from Pennsylvania for two weeks at their home on upper Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Merritt have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson.

School opened Tuesday with large attendance of pupils and large staff of teachers.

Remember bargain day at the famous Highland Post newspaper on Saturday. Just get there and subscribe.

Lew Thorn has returned here for a while from the south. He has been here about three weeks. His wife remained in the south as the climate disagrees with her here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer had as guests last week Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Palmer of Summerville, N. J.

T. Edward DuBois, wife and friends came up from New York last week and are enjoying camp life up at the Dumont place at West Park.

Mrs. Lorin Schantz was very unfortunate as she fell Sunday evening and broke her wrist. This means suffering for several weeks. We are sorry to hear of this and her many friends wish for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker had week end guests from out of town.

Everyone is busy with peaches and grapes and they are unusually fine and people realize a good price.

Grace Marten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marten, had the misfortune to sprain her ankle badly Monday evening. This is certainly a painful affair and we hope she will soon be around.

Those who went to Washington Hollow for clam bake report a grand feast. It was gotten up regardless and we know everyone was filled with good eats.

Ida McKinley Council, D. of A., held regular meeting Wednesday evening with a large membership present. Meeting was full of vim and a social at the close was delightful for the appointed committee served watermelon in abundance. The coming convention at Rochester was discussed and the people who go from here anticipate a grand time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lucas spent Labor Day at Lake Mohonk.

Mrs. Irving Rathgeb and son were in Danbury, Conn., Labor Day.

Esther Terpening commenced to teach school Tuesday morning at New Hurley.

Anna Terpening has gone to Lake George for two weeks vacation.

C. E. Browne was in town last week. He is looking fine.

F. L. Metcalf is a busy man, contracting for bungalows up at Claryville. He is now finishing Charles Dubois's and they can soon go to the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carpenter have returned from their vacation and feel just like work now.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Fisher were in Orange Lake recently enjoying some of the sports.

Just remember there is a Highland Day in view and on Saturday, September 10, there will be something doing. Every fruit grower wants to be on hand for an exhibit. Then the ball game. The fat and lean of it will be on hand so do not miss it. A band from Poughkeepsie will give all fine music and the clam bake to commence at 5 o'clock will be something to look forward to with pleasure for everyone can have their fill. They take place at 7 and 9. After a full meal just get out and do the walk around, camel stride and other fancy steps in the block dance. Every road opens up in this place and room for the people and autos. Be sure and some.

Cora Turrentine of Brooklyn has spent her vacation up in the Adirondacks and on her return stopped over with her father and sisters on the state road and enjoyed a short visit with them.

Charles Miller was a recent visitor in New York city.

Herman Dayton has a new tenant in his newly acquired place for the winter as he expects to occupy it in the spring.

Mrs. Cornelius DuBois of Main street has entertained relatives from out of town the past week.

TAKING EVERYTHING MOVABLE FROM THE ZR-2 WRECK BEFORE IT WENT TO PIECES.

Hardly had the ZR-2 hit the water when it began to break up. Rescuers are shown making frantic efforts to take everything movable, whether living or dead, from the wreck just before it finally lost all shape. The inset shows Captain Wann as he lay on his cot in the hospital after the explosion. Captain Wann was in charge of the airship when the wreck occurred.

NEW YORK IS PORT OF MISSING GIRLS

Runaways From All Parts of the Country Go to Gotham for Adventure.

New York is the "port of missing girls."

In addition to its own quota of annual disappearances among girls under twenty-one, the lure of the "big city" draws adventurous misses of other towns, according to Capt. John A. Ayres, head of the police bureau of missing persons.

While the number of missing New York girls is decreasing each year, those from other cities who come here show a proportionate increase, says Ayres.

New York attracts girls from as far as the Pacific coast, but the majority come from east of Chicago.

Little more than 1 per cent of these girls remain "lost," Ayres said. Since 1915 the number of these cases has averaged slightly under 2,000 a year. The number of runaway boys and of adults of both sexes is about the same.

"Girls come to New York because they believe they will find adventure here, when, in fact, this is the 'slowest' town in the country. Men figure directly in less than 25 per cent of the missing girls cases.

"The 'fool age' for girls is from fourteen to sixteen. In boys it's from ten to seventeen."

SELLS SOME MINES

Rich Former Laborer Gets Millions From a Company.

Pedro Alvarado, the former mine laborer who became a multi-millionaire by his discovery of a rich silver ore outcropping at Parral, Mex., which was developed into the famous Palmillo mine, has just sold 51 of his mines in Chihuahua, Durango and Senora to the Mexican Natural Resources Company of San Antonio, Tex., for $6,000,000 United States currency.

Alvarado came into wide public notice about fifteen years ago, soon after his rise to sudden fortune, by offering to pay the public debt of Mexico. Gen. Porfirio Diaz, who was president at the time, refused the offer.

For many years Alvarado distributed large sums of money among the poor people of Parral by making a trip through the streets once a week scattering silver coins as he went along. He built a magnificent palace of marble upon the site of his lowly birthplace, the cost of the structure being $2,000,000, it is stated. In every room he placed a piano and a cage of canary birds. He also erected a fine Catholic church in Parral.

FISH BITE TOO FAST

Man After Them Had Too Much Luck and Could Not Smoke.

Fish bit too fast the other day for Harry H. Woodward, a barber, near Castleman's Ferry, on the Shenandoah river in Virginia, and he returned to his home a bit put out because of his streak of luck.

He said they came too fast for him, and he had no time to sit on the bank and smoke his pipe and nod. Woodward and two friends went to the river during the morning, the stream having cleared after a rain, and he put out two ordinary lines.

After landing 17 black bass, he reeled up and came home, saying he had too much luck for one day. One of the bass weighed a little over five pounds, and the others ranged from three to four-and-a-half pounds. His two friends caught seven between them.

When Woodward laid the fish on the floor of his barber shop there was a general craning of necks, and the next day the place where he had fished was visited by many other anglers, but with no such luck as struck Woodward.

DISEASE MADE HER STEAL

After Failure of Law to Cure Woman, Physicians Will Operate.

Following the failure of the law, science will try to cure the burglary tendencies of Mrs. Fannie Liebowitz, of New York city, third-time offender.

Dr. E. H. Vaughan says the woman is the victim of hypothyroidism, a disease causing a dulled mentality, due to the fact that there is insufficient secretion from the thyroid gland. If the amount of secretion is increased to normal, intelligence is stimulated, and the person begins to reason correctly and to distinguish between right and wrong. After treatment Mrs. Liebowitz will be placed under a test to determine the success of the operation.

Why Ball "Bounces."

A ball bounces because it possesses a quality known as elasticity. When a ball is thrown against the floor the ball becomes flat where it strikes the floor; because of its elasticity the ball immediately returns to its natural shape and in doing so forces itself back into the air—and that's the "bounce." A baseball flies away from the bat for the same reason.
